

Nominating Committee report 2017

There was nothing either new or exciting from the nominating committee in 2017. This being my second year on the committee I am always impressed with how hard the committee works to fill the many roles needed for running the church committee system each year, my sincere thank you to them. My observations though are that it seems like the same people serve on committees and just get rotated through different ones. That is truly a shame in my opinion. It seems like we have three groups in the church. Those folks who rotate through committees and are always willing to do so, Those folks who did that for years and now are mostly but not permanently on committee retirement and the last group who never or almost never can be called on to be on a committee for the church. If you are reading this and are in the last group, please make 2018 the year that you step up and fill out your name on a self-nomination form when it shows up in your bulletin in the fall.

Rick Porter, Chair of 2017 Nominating Committee